

WEATHER FAIR.

NIGHT EDITION

The

"Circulation Books Open to All."

PRICE ONE CENT.

World.

"Circulation Books Open to All."

NEW YORK, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1900.

RACING and SPORTS

PRICE ONE CENT.

Bryan Makes This Promise I'LL KILL THE TRUSTS

"I'll make it impossible for any trust monopoly to exist in this country."—WILLIAM J. BRYAN.

M'KINLEY SAYS
"NO" TO CHINA.

Peace Terms Rejected
Because They Lack Guarantees.

(Special to The Evening World)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—China has cabled a request to this Government that negotiations for peace begin to-morrow at Peking. Minister Conger will be wired to-day an outline of the course he must pursue.

While the tenor of these orders is withheld it is hinted here that President McKinley does not regard the proposals of China as meeting the necessities of the case.

A lack of guarantees for the protection of American citizens now in China and our missionary and trade interests is the stumbling block.

The correspondence between the Emperor Kwang-Su and the President was given out this afternoon. The Emperor thanks the United States for taking the initiative in withdrawing troops from Peking and for consenting to use its kindly offices between China and the powers.

Mr. McKinley's reply is guarded, and he trusts that the Emperor will punish with "just sternness" the principal offenders.

PARIS, Oct. 18.—The Minister of Foreign Affairs has received a message from the Chinese Emperor asking France and England in the restoration of the empire and expressed the hope that nothing will occur to cause a rupture of the peace proceedings.

YELLOW FEVER IN NEW YORK.

Passenger from Havana Ill in Pest Hospital.

Joseph Mandelsohn, a first-class cabin passenger of the Ward Line steamer Mexico, which arrived on Tuesday, Oct. 16, from Havana, was among those removed to Hoffman Island for observation.

He complained of feeling ill and was removed to Swinburne Island hospital for treatment.

Last evening his symptoms were unmistakably those of yellow fever. Dr. Doty said the case is mild and Dr. Mandelsohn, who died fairly this morning, belongs to Chicago.

REGISTRATION TO-DAY.

District Workers on Both Sides to Root Out Delinquents To-Day.
District workers of both parties will do their best to-day to root out delinquent voters. It is believed that the registration will be even greater than on the preceding days.

The polls will be open at 7 A. M. and remain open till 10 P. M.

The Thirty-fourth Election District of the Twenty-first Assembly District has the honor of leading all the other districts by a larger number of possible voters. There are 1,460 persons there entitled to vote. Usually the vote in an election day does not exceed 600. An law tries to restrict it to 300.

WEATHER FORECAST.

Forecast for the thirty-six hours ending at 8 P. M. Saturday, Oct. 20, for New York City and vicinity: Fair to-night and Saturday; fresh northwest winds, becoming variable.

An Unlimited Limited.
There is no limit to the conveniences assured the traveler by the Pennsylvania Railroad in choosing for the journey to Chicago or St. Louis.

FIFTH AVENUE BELLE TRIED TO SAVE YOUNG ROOSEVELT.

"Dutch" Sadie Swore at the Young Girl Who Pleaded with Her Not to Wreck the Future of Old Millionaire's Wayward Son.

Young J. R. Roosevelt, Jr.'s, "serape" with a woman of the Tenderloin has assumed the hue of romance.

A girl from Fifth avenue who loves him for himself is trying to rescue him from the woman who claims him. This Fifth avenue girl is who first learned of the boy's mishap. She went to the woman now known to be his wife and told her she was Roosevelt's affianced bride and implored her not to wreck his future to give him up.

The woman scoffed at her tears, laughed at her entreaties.

The Fifth avenue girl turned sadly away, never dreaming that a marriage had taken place. She went straight to the lad's father with the story of young Jim's disgrace. Then followed the visit of the father to the flat in West Eighty-fourth street, the stormy scene with young Roosevelt and his wife, ending with the heart-broken old aristocrat dragging away the scapegrace to his country place at Hyde Park on the Hudson.

To a World reporter this morning Mrs. Roosevelt said: "I am married to Dr. Gray and never was divorced from him."

"Then you must be a bigamist," ventured the reporter.

"It is a lie," she screamed, excitedly, and changed the subject. "A woman—one of those swell ladies from Fifth avenue—came to see Jim. She told me she was engaged to be married to Jim and begged me to tell her the truth. Poor Jim! I'm sorry I got him into all this trouble. Well, this lady went on her knees and begged me to say I was not his wife. 'He's engaged to me,' she cried, falling at my feet."

"What?" I said, "engaged to you?" She knelt on the door to me. I didn't want her making any noise in my flat. What would the neighbors say?

"So I says to her: 'I don't know who you are and I don't see that you gave me any more claim on Jim than I have.' Jim loves me, and I told her so."

Wept Over His Fate.

"I didn't know what was the matter with that girl. She kept on crying. I don't think any man is worth crying that way for. The idea of her coming here and saying Jim belonged to her is just as good as any of those friends of Jim's and I'll tell John Jacob Astor and Teddy Roosevelt so."

"Astor doesn't know who the girl was."

Despite her denials that she is the wife of James R. Roosevelt, Jr., Mrs. Roosevelt this morning took the first step to defend her rights as the wife of the young aristocrat. She left her home on West Eighty-fourth street early this morning, and, stepping into her brougham waiting at the door, was driven downtown.

When asked where she was going she replied:

"To my lawyer."

There had been a painful interview with Mr. Roosevelt, Jr., and the woman. She persisted that she had married him but he, however, had confessed. The father raged and insisted that there must be an immediate annulment of the marriage.

"I agree with you," he said, "but the man he is the son of the man who is between me and the boy."

Asked if he regretted his marriage to Dr. Gray, the young man said: "I'm not sorry about money."

Asked if he regretted his marriage to Dr. Gray, the young man said: "I'm not sorry about money."

"Would you mind showing it now?" he was asked.

"No, I won't. It's too much trouble."

"I think you're right," he said.

"Three years ago, in Boston, he was only a young fellow. Anyhow, his name is not Gray. That is the name we used to call him when we wanted to let people know anything he did."

"He's a lawyer and I'm going to see him. I'm not going to get the worst of this."

The young woman was Douglas Brown, who was one of the witnesses of the ceremony.

In the face of the woman's denials that she is the wife of young Jimmy Roosevelt, the records in the Bureau of

FAFFY BLUM IN JAIL FOR CONTEMPT OF COURT.

Not Believing the Man She Loved Was Married to the Tenderloin Woman His Affianced Bride Went to His Father and the Scapegrace Was Hustled Out of Town.

WAR MINISTER SHOT TO DEATH.

Castro Tried to Seize Presidency of San Salvador.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press)
PANAMA, Colombia, Oct. 8.—The Central American Republic of Salvador has been the theatre of an attempted military coup, which ended in an exemplary tragedy. Gen. Jacinto Castro, Secretary of War, has fallen a victim to his ambition.

Trusting to the obedience of his inferior officers the Secretary of War concocted and boldly undertook the plan of a military coup to seize the Presidency. His subordinates, however, while apparently agreeing to his proposal, quietly took the necessary steps to prevent the success of the undertaking, and when Gen. Castro presented himself at the barracks to recruit his troops he was promptly put under arrest.

Gen. Regalado, the President of the Republic, was apprised of the occurrence. He simply turned his wounded superior over to a court-martial and thus firmly and promptly pronounced sentence of death.

President Regalado confirmed the findings of the court and the sentence was carried out in the most impressive manner.

"The corporations must keep out of politics."

"Let us have a law that makes it a penitentiary offense for a man to rob another of his vote because he works for him."

"Trust magnates who try to force their workmen to vote for any candidate should go to jail."

"Hanna quoting Lincoln. What a sacrifice!"

In his speech at Auburn Bryan called the Republican manufacturers cowards.

In all fully 80,000 persons heard Bryan speak to-day.

WANTS TO STOP BIG TUNNEL.

Proprietor Bates, of Everett House, Says It Drives Away Guests.

Benjamin L. M. Bates, proprietor of the Everett House, Union Square, and Fourth avenue, applied to Justice Freedman in the Supreme Court to-day for an injunction against Hoobrock, B. & D. & Day, sub-contractors on the rapid transit tunnel.

Bates wants to restrain them from conducting their central plant in front of the hotel and which, he says, on account of the noise and smoke, drives away his guests.

Justice Freedman reserved his decision.

SNUB FOR MR. COLER.

His Name Not in List of Speakers in Brooklyn To-Night.

Much comment has been excited by the fact that Comptroller Coler's name does not appear among the speakers who are to address the mass-meeting in the Brooklyn Academy of Music this evening. Mr. Coler was invited to attend a similar meeting on Oct. 8, but failed to attend, and it has been intimated among his friends that the failure to invite him to speak to-night was a deliberate attempt to snub him.

When James S. Gwin visited the City Hall this afternoon he was asked why Mr. Coler had not been invited to address the meeting. He replied angrily: "I can't name any one to whom it makes any difference whether Mr. Coler is at the meeting or not. I can't find out why he should be snubbed so.

When Mr. Coler attended, he was asked what he intended to do. He said he intended to discuss the matter in any way.

EVEN MONEY ON KINGS.

(Correspondence of the Evening World)

SPEECH NO. 1.

At SOLWAY, Scotland, Oct. 13.—Several hundred people had congregated at the rail-road station when Bryan arrived here, and all of them listened attentively while he talked to them for five or six minutes.

Despite the fact that he had made many speeches yesterday, Mr. Bryan was in splendid voice and his intonation rang out clear upon the crisp morning air.

He made no more direct reference to the great interests of the place than to say he did not know enough about the local conditions to be able to discuss the things that his auditors were interested in.

He then took up very briefly the general issues of the campaign. Refusing to trust his audience, he declared that the Republicans had not been forthcoming in their platform, and that under the present Administration the trust had flourished as never before.

In this connection he said: "I do not think that we are doing any thing in this country to have a few landlords and the rest of the people tenant. Neither do I believe that we are getting anything in this country to have a few men at the head of great industries and all the rest merely clerks under these industries."

"That," he said, "is what every king pretends to his subjects in this country," said Mr. Bryan.

"We are interested in the size of the standing army, and said that upon the present basis of 100,000 soldiers the expense to the country would be not less than $75,000,000 a year for the military establishment, or an average of $1 for each individual or $8 for each family. Taking up

the Philippine question Mr. Bryan

said that the Republican party was promising "to be good to the Philippine."

"That," he said, "is what every king

pretends to his subjects in this country," said Mr. Bryan.

"We are interested in the size of the

standing army,

and said that upon the present basis

of 100,000 soldiers the expense to the country would be not less than $75,000,000 a year for

the military establishment, or an average of $1 for each individual

or $8 for each family. Taking up

the Philippine question Mr. Bryan

said that the Republican party was

promising "to be good to the Philip-

pine."

"That," he said, "is what every king

pretends to his subjects in this country," said Mr. Bryan.

"We are interested in the size of the

standing army,

and said that upon the present basis

of 100,000 soldiers the expense to the country would be not less than $75,000,000 a year for

the military establishment, or an average of $1 for each individual

or $8 for each family. Taking up

the Philippine question Mr. Bryan

said that the Republican party was

promising "to be good to the Philip-

pine."

"That," he said, "is what every king

pretends to his subjects in this country," said Mr. Bryan.

"We are interested in the size of the

standing army,